Marriage Notes

We met at Auburn University in the Wesley Foundation. They were having a Freshman Get-Acquainted Party, and I went with my roommate who was Catholic. A boy named Scott asked me to square dance, but I didn't want to leave Marianne by herself. Before I knew it Lane asked her to dance. In the square dance square, Lane was my Coner. They took us afterwards to get a coke. Scott was from Scottsboro, and Marianne was from Birmingham. Lane said he was from Bayou La Batre, and I asked him if that was anywhere close to Coden. The next night at Convocation Scott and Lane found us, but somehow I ended up with Lane. We dated through college. I graduated and worked a year before we got married.

Ed finished boot camp for the Army December 17, 1998. Since he was being sent to Ft. Riley, Kansas, he thought it best to be married before he arrived so he could apply for married housing. For this reason Lynda and Ed were married in the court house at Monroeville December 18, 1989, since they met at Alabama Southern Jr. College located there. Invitations were already sent for the church wedding January 16, 1999, so this wedding was also carried through.

Marriage Notes for WILLARD DAHLBERG and KATHERINE BERREY:

Katherine Berrey and Willard Dahlberg met on the train in November, 1938 coming home for Thanksgiving. Willard was a freshman at Auburn University and Katherine was a freshman at Montevallo. The upper classmen were hazing Willard because he was a freshman. He was dressed in a ROTC uniform. They told him to kneel beside Katherine and propose to her. He knelt and said, "Miss Berrey, if you love me like I love you, then so help us!" She blushed and was embarrassed to death.

When Katherine arrived home she told her parents, and strangely enough since her father was a salesman for Turner Supply Company, he knew Willard's father and thought very highly of him.

Going back to college after Thanksgiving they also rode the train together. Katherine was not the slightest bit interested in Willard at this time. She was interested in a boy from Flomaton until she saw him kiss his girlfriend good bye.

A few weeks after arriving back to college from Thanksgiving, Willard's father passed away. When Katherine's parents told her this news, she tried to get some of the girls in her dorm to send a sympathy card together with her to Willard, but they would not do it. Katherine's roommate, Louisa Coxe, insisted she send one alone, so she did. Before the Christmas holidays she received a letter from Willard saying he wanted to come see her over the holidays. He came one afternoon, and they went to visit one of Willard's friends, Charles McDonald.

Correspondence continued, but at a very slow pace. It was not until January 8, 1944, they married.

We met at Auburn University in the Wesley Foundation. They were having a Freshman Get-Acquainted Party, and I went with my roommate who was Catholic. A boy named Scott asked me to square dance, but I didn't want to leave Marianne by herself. Before I knew it Lane asked her to dance. In the square dance square, Lane was my Coner. They took us afterwards to get a coke. Scott was from Scottsboro, and Marianne was from Birmingham. Lane said he was from Bayou La Batre, and I asked him if that was anywhere close to Coden. The next night at Convocation Scott and Lane found us, but somehow I ended up with Lane. We dated through college. I graduated and worked a year before we got married.

Marriage Notes for WILLARD DAHLBERG and KATHERINE BERREY:

Katherine Berrey and Willard Dahlberg met on the train in November, 1938 coming home for Thanksgiving. Willard was a freshman at Auburn University and Katherine was a freshman at Montevallo. The upper classmen were hazing Willard because he was a freshman. He was dressed in a ROTC uniform. They told him to kneel beside Katherine and propose to her. He knelt and said, "Miss Berrey, if you love me like I love you, then so help us!" She blushed and was embarrassed to death.

When Katherine arrived home she told her parents, and strangely enough since her father was a salesman for Turner Supply Company, he knew Willard's father and thought very highly of him.

Going back to college after Thanksgiving they also rode the train together. Katherine was not the slightest bit interested in Willard at this time. She was interested in a boy from Flomaton until she saw him kiss his girlfriend good bye.

A few weeks after arriving back to college from Thanksgiving, Willard's father passed away. When Katherine's parents told her this news, she tried to get some of the girls in her dorm to send a sympathy card together with her to Willard, but they would not do it. Katherine's roommate, Louisa Coxe, insisted she send one alone, so she did. Before the Christmas holidays she received a letter from Willard saying he wanted to come see her over the holidays. He came one afternoon, and they went to visit one of Willard's friends, Charles McDonald.

Correspondence continued, but at a very slow pace. It was not until January 8, 1944, they married.

We met at Auburn University in the Wesley Foundation. They were having a Freshman Get-Acquainted Party, and I went with my roommate who was Catholic. A boy named Scott asked me to square dance, but I didn't want to leave Marianne by herself. Before I knew it Lane asked her to dance. In the square dance square, Lane was my Coner. They took us afterwards to get a coke. Scott was from Scottsboro, and Marianne was from Birmingham. Lane said he was from Bayou La Batre, and I asked him if that was anywhere close to Coden. The next night at Convocation Scott and Lane found us, but somehow I ended up with Lane. We dated through college. I graduated and worked a year before we got married.

Marriage Notes for WILLARD DAHLBERG and KATHERINE BERREY:

Katherine Berrey and Willard Dahlberg met on the train in November, 1938 coming home for Thanksgiving. Willard was a freshman at Auburn University and Katherine was a freshman at Montevallo. The upper classmen were hazing Willard because he was a freshman. He was dressed in a ROTC uniform. They told him to kneel beside Katherine and propose to her. He knelt and said, "Miss Berrey, if you love me like I love you, then so help us!" She blushed and was embarrassed to death.

When Katherine arrived home she told her parents, and strangely enough since her father was a salesman for Turner Supply Company, he knew Willard's father and thought very highly of him.

Going back to college after Thanksgiving they also rode the train together. Katherine was not the slightest bit interested in Willard at this time. She was interested in a boy from Flomaton until she saw him kiss his girlfriend good bye.

A few weeks after arriving back to college from Thanksgiving, Willard's father passed away. When Katherine's parents told her this news, she tried to get some of the girls in her dorm to send a sympathy card together with her to Willard, but they would not do it. Katherine's roommate, Louisa Coxe, insisted she send one alone, so she did. Before the Christmas holidays she received a letter from Willard saying he wanted to come see her over the holidays. He came one afternoon, and they went to visit one of Willard's friends, Charles McDonald.

Correspondence continued, but at a very slow pace. It was not until January 8, 1944, they married.

We met at Auburn University in the Wesley Foundation. They were having a Freshman Get-Acquainted Party, and I went with my roommate who was Catholic. A boy named Scott asked me to square dance, but I didn't want to leave Marianne by herself. Before I knew it Lane asked her to dance. In the square dance square, Lane was my Coner. They took us afterwards to get a coke. Scott was from Scottsboro, and Marianne was from Birmingham. Lane said he was from Bayou La Batre, and I asked him if that was anywhere close to Coden. The next night at Convocation Scott and Lane found us, but somehow I ended up with Lane. We dated through college. I graduated and worked a year before we got married.
